BILLY COTTON

With the recent release of his first book and graceful projects from prewar pieds-à-terre to a rollicking Greek Revival estate in the Catskills of New York, Billy Cotton is poised to become the new prince of elegant East Coast living. His cinematic, delightfully off-kilter interiors are the architectural equivalent of a handwritten note: personal, impressive, and wholly unexpected.

NICOLE HOLLIS

Self-taught Nicole Hollis started off designing big-impact hotels in Atlanta, Seattle, and San Francisco. Now her residential work takes precedence, often encompassing large-scale collaborations with artists and designers.
